Papers

At ANZAM, Brisbane, there will be two kinds of paper presentation sessions: competitive sessions and interactive sessions. Original research papers, which may be theoretical, empirical, literature reviews, or case studies, aligned with the conference theme (Under new management: Innovating for sustainable and just futures), and/or ANZAM's research streams/tracks, are invited.

Competitive Sessions (12 pages) – The most fully developed papers should be submitted for inclusion in competitive sessions. Competitive sessions consist of more formal and longer presentations, with individual paper presentations followed by a question and answer session for each paper.

Interactive Sessions (9 pages) - Interactive sessions are primarily designed for shorter manuscripts (in research note format) or work-in-progress pieces which could benefit from feedback from other participants and the session chair/discussant. They are held in a roundtable discussion format with shorter paper presentations so as to allow for more engaging interaction with other researchers with similar interests. These interactive sessions have the aim of providing more opportunity for discussion about the research presented and the themes that emerge with the session, and will be an excellent forum for gaining feedback from knowledgeable researchers in your field.

Note: page limits do not include references, tables/figures, cover page.

Conference Papers should be prepared as a Microsoft Word document and conform to the editorial guidelines and formatting specified for ANZAM Conference Papers. Please refer to the ANZAM Conference Paper Style Guide and ensure you read the General Policies and Requirements section below before submitting your paper (www.anzamconference.org). All papers submitted for both competitive and interactive sessions will be subject to double blind review.

Research Symposia and Workshops

The ANZAM Conference Program includes Research Symposia and Workshops focused on professional development topics to increase the value of the Conference for participants. Research Symposia focus on leading-edge research. Workshops cover a broader domain including research methods, getting published, external funding, accreditation processes, teaching innovations, managing workloads, supervision, management practice etc.

These sessions are scheduled for approximately 100 minutes.

The criteria for selecting Research Symposia and Workshops for inclusion in the Conference Program include:

- Relevance to ANZAM's purpose
- Relevance to Conference theme
- Relevance of presenter's expertise
- Professional development potential for participants or research quality
- Topicality

Presenters of workshops should submit a proposal outlining the topic and relevant issues to Professor Lisa Bradley: lm.bradley@qut.edu.au
